

Glenn Bradley
CAA

Glenn took over as Head of Flight Operations at the CAA in October 2020, after having joined the Authority in 2017 as Flight Operations Manager – Aeroplanes. He remains a current A320 pilot and TI/SE/TRE/TRI.

Prior to that he spent nine years at easyJet in several roles but latterly as Head of Aircraft Operations and Flight Operations Manager – Operational Standards, as well as being a A320 Capt, TRI/TRE. This was preceded by nine years at GB Airways (BA franchise) as Flight Technical Manager. Before his career in civil aviation, Glenn spent 12 years in the RAF mainly flying Tornado GR1/GR1a aircraft. He is also a keen GA pilot, retaining a share in a Beagle Pup aircraft.
